

April 22, 1967

Arsenal Wife Won't Talk

Link To The CIA Hinted

Authorities Seek Scion

By WILLIAM O'BRIEN
Staff Writer

Police and federal agents were striving today to determine whether the arrest of a svelte, brunette housewife plus the seizure of tons of guns and ammunition in a Pacific Heights mansion is the result of a CIA boo-boo or a real illegitimate attempt to run guns.

Mrs. Louise Thoresen, 30, arrested in her sprawling, white-porocco home, was not talking.

The mansion, at 2801 Broadway, is almost directly across the street from the residence of Catholic Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

TOY PISTOLS

Nor was Mrs. Thoresen's 1-year old son, Mike, talking as he was led away from yesterday afternoon's raid still wearing his toy six shooters in a child's gunbelt.

His realistic toy copy of a sub machine gun lay atop a crate of the real lethal articles stored in a room of the almost totally unfurnished mansion.

Continued

Soldiers remove 37 mm. anti-tank gun. from the Thoresen residence